Jerusalem belongs to the Palestinians?

Anyone who's familiar with biblical prophecy today knows that the land of Israel and the city of Jerusalem belongs to the seeds of Avraham (1). Although the current leader of the United States is making such boisterous claims that the Palestinians will have Jerusalem as their own capital by next year is outlandishly preposterous! (2) NO man, leader or political person has the right to divide the land which biblically belongs to the 12 tribes of Israel (3). No matter how many claims are made by any such persons, they have no legal authority to force the Jewish people into forfeiting their inheritance of the land to their enemies for so called peace. The fact that such people will enter into this path will seriously face consequences by the heavenly Judge (4). Jerusalem incase no one knows (HELLO) is G-ds footstool. The Bible is a Myth?

In this month we share a story in which a Jewish person is questioned about the Bible. One such Jewish woman whom we will call R. recently said that the bible was nothing more than myths. What R.failed to realize was that the Tenakh (a) is G-ds personal revelation of his being, and existence to our Jewish people (b). His revelation was then hand given to the Hebrew prophet Moshe (Moses)(c) who was no myth by any means! R's faith as she explained was placed in her own intellectual philosophy, belief and analysis of other false deities whom she claimed were more existent and tangible to her. As far as putting faith in the G-d of our fathers (d) she had no clue. Her choice of a so called Judaism is a Judaism which fails to acknowledge a living creator or a Messiah (e). She believes in celebrating biblical holidays and Jewish culture, but rejects a belief in a G-d or his authority. This in my opinion is no Judaism at all. How can one Jewish claim or cling to biblically instituted holidays and yet reject the very one who gave them? R's choice of humanistic Judaism supersedes.....
